

TAFT LOOMS AS SUCCESSOR TO JUSTICE WHITE

Former Senator Sutherland Also Merits Favorable Consideration of Harding.

TAFT HAPPIEST ON BENCH

Friends of Secretary Hughes Believes He Will Retain Present Post

Washington—Who will be the next chief justice of the United States? The death of Chief Justice White hastens the consideration of a problem that President Harding did not expect to tackle until the end of the present term of the Supreme court, when it was generally assumed that Mr. White would retire.

For many months it has been accepted that the end of this term of court would see not only the retirement of a chief justice but other members of the court of advanced age. President Harding has from the beginning hoped that he would be able to appoint former Senator George Sutherland of Utah, who was his constant adviser during the campaign, and whose judicial ability is unquestioned.

Another hope which Mr. Harding has had was that an opportunity would present itself whereby he could honor former President Taft with a place on the highest bench of the land. To appoint both Mr. Taft and Mr. Sutherland would require two vacancies and it is not improbable that President Harding will delay appointing a successor to the chief justice until after the close of this term of court so that he can make two appointments at one time.

The difficulty about appointing former Senator Sutherland to the chief justiceship is the fact that he was born in England. It has never been customary for any but a native American to occupy the position though, of course Senator Sutherland like the late Secretary Lane and former Secretary of Labor Wilson spent so little of their youth under the British flag that they were never regarded as anything but 100 per cent Americans.

While George Sutherland is likely therefore to become an associate justice some day, the chances are that he will not be made chief justice. That place in all probability will go to former President Taft. If it goes to Taft, one not now on the bench, the present members of the court is that the Republicans are too advanced in age and the younger justices are Democrats. The next chief justice will be a Republican.

The movement to appoint former President Taft to become the head of the Supreme court has been spontaneous ever since it became known that Chief Justice White would retire. There has been no exerting of pressure, no attempt to line up political influences of any kind—it has been a simple expression that has come in many informal ways to President Harding that the appointment of Mr. Taft would be popular with the country.

Ever since Mr. Taft entered public life, his intimate friends have said that the happiest moment on the bench. As a federal judge in Ohio he was not only popular but his decisions were noteworthy. On his retirement from the presidency, Mr. Taft became the head of the war labor board and won the confidence of labor by his fairness and impartiality. In the league of nations controversy, he clung tenaciously.

RUSSIAN PRINCESS HAD TWO HUSBANDS

Capt. Wallace Schultz Wins Annulment of Marriage in Green Bay Court.

By United Press Leased Wire
Green Bay, Wis.—Annulment of the marriage of Princess Nadzda Troubetzkoy, known during the world war as "the most beautiful Red Cross nurse in Europe," and Captain Wallace Schultz, Milwaukee and Green Bay engineer and clubman, was ordered Friday by Circuit Judge J. K. Logan of Jacksonville, Fla., and J. F. Taylor of Tampa, head the Mennonite land sales corporation which is about to close a deal for 105,000 acres of land in the vicinity of Swift Current, Sask. It is understood nearly $5,000,000 is involved in the transaction.

Other transactions to dispose of still greater holdings of the Mennonites are in the making. All of this is because the dominion and provincial governments are trying to force the Mennonites to abandon customs as old as the movement itself. The Mennonite leaders insist upon the right to educate their own children and use the German language in their schools.

The Canadian government insists upon the king's English and has demanded that the Mennonites send their children to public schools.

The Mexican government is enthusiastic over the migration of the Mennonite colonies. They will take great wealth into Mexico.

President Oregon has dealt personally with Mennonite leaders, and it is understood Francisco Villa who has colonized much of western Durango, with his followers, is making special inducements to the Mennonites to settle there.

The Mennonites do not believe in fighting. They were opposed to the World War. Their beliefs are purely pacifist. Among their ceremonies is the washing of feet.

They have been promised peace in Mexico.

HE IS ONLY 134 YEARS OLD

The other day, down in Washington, a sharp-eyed auditor for the U. S. Interior Department, noticed "John Smith, Shell Lake, Minn." had been on the Indian pension list for 50 years. "Alas!" said the auditor, and immediately wrote a letter to the U. S. attorney at Minneapolis. Was John alive? Or was some faker getting the money? John says he's alive! He's a Chippewa chief. Real name, Ka-Ba-Nah-Gwey-Wenec. "Alive?" Hugh! grunted John, as the white men call him, "I'm only 134 years old!" A year ago John thought he was only 129. But there was an error in computing his age which cost him four years, he says.

CORRECT SOUTH STATE BOUNDARY

Madison—People living along the Wisconsin-Illinois boundary line may find themselves moved into another state.

A survey of the boundary is to be made by the United States land office with the idea of correcting inaccuracies now existing in the boundary.

The survey will attempt to relocate the old line and correct it. According to records here near Beloit, Illinois has encroached nearly a mile into what is legitimate Wisconsin territory. In other parts of the line, Wisconsin is suspected with having gone over into Illinois.

The survey will determine these discrepancies and the respective state legislatures will follow the report in establishing the permanent boundary. The survey is to be made as the result of an agreement between Governor John J. Blaine of Wisconsin and Governor Len Small of Illinois.

LITTLE CHANCE FOR LOWER RAIL RATES

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—Railway operating expenses must be reduced nearly $500,000,000 a year before the road managers can see their way clear to ask the interstate commerce commission for freight rate reductions, according to official opinion here.

"Probably no general rate reduction will be applied for until late summer, or perhaps fall," said Director Farmer, of the bureau of railway economics, here Friday.

"When the rates are reduced, it should bring lower prices of commodities or at least a general revival of business which, in the end will amount to the same thing."

The roads now, Director Farmer emphasized, are running nearly $700,000,000 a year short of the 6 per cent net income on their investment guaranteed them by the transportation law.

Mennonites Ready To Sell And Leave Canada

Winnipeg, Man.—Several million dollars worth and thousands of industrious farmers and traders are in the course of transition from Canada to Mexico.

Instead of fighting to keep this potential prosperity in Canada, officials of the dominion are keeping still.

Mennonites of Southern Saskatchewan and Manitoba are about to close a gigantic deal disposing of thousands of acres of land to a Florida syndicate simultaneously they are arranging transportation for a caravan of people and property that will stretch across the United States to Western Durango, Mexico.

Land Surtax Bill Killed By Assembly

Bill for Junior Colleges Is Ordered Engrossed by State Senate.

By United Press Leased Wire
Madison—The land surtax bill, drafted by Prof. John A. Commons of the University of Wisconsin, was killed in the Assembly Friday on the understanding that should an interim legislative committee be created to study taxation, the bill would be revived. The bill would levy a surtax on unimproved lands to the extent of more than one million dollars annually. Most of the increased tax would fall upon city realty valued at more than $10,000 and unimproved.

The assembly engrossed the Severson bill which requires all corporations to file a complete statement of business with the secretary of state giving condition, profits and dividends. The original bill repealed the law imposing secrecy upon income tax returns and was amended in the senate.

The Perry bill bringing all motor busses under the regulation of the railroad commission as common carriers was passed by the senate without comment. This bill now goes to the governor for approval.

The junior college bill, providing for the establishment of five such institutions in the state, was ordered engrossed by the senate Superior, Green Bay and Racine will establish colleges of this kind if the bill is enacted. It carried an appropriation of $50,000 for state aid.

PHILIPPINES AS SAFE TO VISIT AS ANY CITY IN U. S.

Last Vestige of Savagery Has Almost Disappeared From Eastern Islands.

Manila.—I was piloting around the Manila Canal when an American freighter came to these far fields. We looked at the crowd of well-dressed, well-behaved people, evidently self-respecting, evidently intelligent, good faces, well-shaped heads, dignified bearing, and all that, and were told that these represented not alone Manila but far away provinces, even pagan land and the Moro of the Bolo famous in romance and more in history.

"Is it policy or politics?" it asked, "and if politics is it international or domestic?"

"Gosh!" gasped my friend, "and I always thought these people lived in trees!"

He was like thousands of the folks at home, like hundreds, even, who get so far as a first look at these green shores. At a hearing before a committee of congress a few months ago a member seriously inquired as to the present extent of head bunting in the Philippine Islands and an eminent junketing party last year interviewed the captain of the ship they came on as to whether it were really safe to land in Manila unarmed. Even persons fleeing hither from the hold up men and blood stained jungles of wild New York have been known to approach with trepidation one of the safest, most orderly and respectable large cities in the world, which I believe to be a fair description of Manila.

The widespread but largely unproved report of the Igorrots as naked nomads and the film exhibitions of alleged Moro villages are chiefly responsible for the dreams. True, there are still regions in the Philippine Islands where civilization hasn't gone much farther than a cooking pot and a fish hook. About 25,000 of the aboriginal Negritos wear G-strings, run wild in the forest and are held to be incurable savages. If there is any such thing as so-called wild peoples still inhabit the mountain lands of

BARKING DO REVEALS SERIOUS INDIANA FIRE

By United Press Leased Wire
Frankfort, Ind.—A barking dog led to the discovery of a $200,000 fire here early Friday.

The blaze destroyed the plant of the Frankfort Ice and Coal company with a loss of $175,000, and the junk house of the Fear and Campbell Poultry company with a loss of $15,000, and damaged homes in the residential section to the extent of $10,000.

The dog was one which employs of the ice plant had befriended. It came to them as a tramp a few days ago and they took it in and fed it and started a bank account from which its food was bought.

Frank Wallace, the night watchman, who heard the dog barking, discovered the blaze in the stables. He tried to rescue four horses and one of them kicked him. The four horses burned to death and Wallace was seriously injured.

HARVEY TELLS WHERE AMERICA IS ON LEAGUE

American Ambassador's Speech Makes It Clear Where U. S. Stands.

By United Press Leased Wire
London—Great Britain Friday accepted it as a fact that America will not join the league of nations.

The message was given here by Ambassador George Harvey in his address Thursday night speaking before the Pilgrims and a number of high British officials.

The Times said: "The allies will meet America more than half way. Disappointment will be caused by his outspoken references to the league of nations but at least we know where we stand."

"The league has its own sphere which should not estrange American feeling nor lessen respect for its endeavors."

"Nobody on this side desires to prescribe the channels in which American good will shall flow," the Chronicle declared, "but gratitude to America does not mean we shall abandon the league."

The Daily News praised Harvey for not confining himself to conventional courtesies. He knew his hearers wanted to learn the truth, it said. The News expressed perplexity over the American attitude on the league, pointing out that the United States rejects the league but wants an association of nations, wants an international court for disarmament, but will not court the league for help in that cause.

"Is it policy or politics?" it asked, "and if politics is it international or domestic?"

CHICAGO BOMBING GANG IS CAUGHT QUIT LOOKING TO U. S. AS CURE-ALL

Police Believe Arrest of Laborers Will End Long List of Terror.

Chicago—Six men named as members of a labor union bombing ring in a "confession" by one of their gang, were arrested here Friday.

The alleged confession and arrests clear up mysterious bomb explosions which have marked Chicago's labor troubles for many years, Chief of Police Charles Fitzmorris believed.

The bombing gang also was alleged to have been responsible for blasts in connection with political meetings and race troubles here during the last few months.

James Sweeney was named in the confession as the master bomber who was charged with directing and had intimate knowledge of nearly all bombing outrages committed in Chicago recently.

The confession was voluntarily made to Chief Fitzmorris by Andrew Kerr, a member of local 402 of the engineers' union. He said he was prompted by a desire to clear up the reign of terror which menaced the city and which has resulted in the loss of many lives and injuring of scores of persons.

Baby Bride Will Not Be Tried On Murder Charge

By United Press Leased Wire
Farmington, Mo.—The charge of murder against Letta Parsons, the "baby bride of the Ozarks," was dismissed Friday.

The 13-year-old girl wife, accused of killing her six-year-old stepchild, Lilly, was held in custody, however, and will have to face trial later on a charge of fourth degree manslaughter in connection with the slaying.

Prosecution attorneys decided to dismiss the murder charge when Judge Housley ruled that the girl was too young to be tried in circuit court, where she would have faced a death sentence, if found guilty.

Letta was ready for the courtroom early Friday. She talked with relatives and embraced her husband, John Parsons, the "wood chopper of Iron Mountain." She killed Lilly, Parsons' daughter, by a former marriage, five days after the wedding.

Letta, who "just lived around from one place to another," and "never had any bringing up," has the sympathy of the women of Farmington. They want her sent to a home until she is of age.

John Parsons, Jr., 10, the only witness to the shooting, who disputed Letta's story that the killing was an accident, showed no inclination Friday to answer from his first story.

Although he admitted Letta was a good mother, he clung to his claim that she shot Lilly when the child would not stand still for the step-mother to comb her hair.

Letta said she was getting the gun to go squirrel hunting, when it was accidentally discharged.

"Lilly scooted under the bed to get her slippers," she said.

"I was picking up the gun and it was discharged,"

NEW ELECTRIC COOKING RATE IS ANNOUNCED

Can Cook With Electricity as Cheaply as With Gas Under New Schedule.

Cooking and baking can be done as cheaply with electricity as with gas as a result of establishment of a special electric cooking rate by the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co. it was announced Friday morning by Superintendent A. K. Ellis. The new rate is effective at once over the company's entire system which includes nearly 30 towns and cities.

It is believed this new rate will result in the immediate installation of a large number of electric ranges and will take part of the load off the company's gas plant. Electric ranges are said to be much more convenient than gas stoves and with the cost being equal the company expects a decided increase in the demand for electric power.

The new rate is 5 cents per kilowatt for the first 25 kilowatt hours per month, 4 cents for the next 25 kilowatt hours per month and 3 cents for all over 50 kilowatt hours. The regular discount rate of 5 per cent on the first $25 and 1 per cent on all amounts over $25 will prevail. Inasmuch as few bills exceed $25 the 5 per cent discount rate will apply all most universally. The rate is less than half now charged for lighting.

This cooking rate is said to be equivalent to a gas rate of from $1.30 to $1.50. Experts who have no connection with the local company have said it is equivalent to $1.30 gas and have expressed surprise that the company was able to offer so attractive an inducement.

Very little extra wiring will be required to utilize this new service. If lead wires now installed are of sufficient size only the installation of another meter will be necessary but in cases where the present house wires are too small, larger wires will be needed to carry the heating current from the meter to the range. The expense connected with this is said to be very small.

Current under the new rate may be used for operating electric irons, toasters, vacuum cleaners, electric fans and other appliances. It has been estimated that the average family can do all its cooking by electricity at a cost of from $4 to $4.50 per month.

While this new rate is extended to all the company's patrons it will not require much additional wiring because the company's lines were built with the expectation that this new plan would become effective at some time. It is of particular interest to farmers and those living in cities and towns where there is no gas plant. It will permit them to enjoy all the conveniences of city life at no greater charge.

It is quite probable that municipalities which now buy electric energy from the traction company and resell it to their patrons will establish a similar rate.

Immense output of the local plant has made this low rate possible, Mr. Ellis said. The traction company's plant here last year generated about as much electrical energy as the plants in Oshkosh, Green Bay and Fond du Lac combined. Consumption will be increased by the lower rate and this will result in still greater output and eventually may mean a still lower rate.

WANTS CONGRESS TO CHANGE WHEAT STANDARD

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—Representative Steenerson, Minnesota, Friday introduced a bill changing and modifying the present federal standards and grades for spring wheat.

The secretary of agriculture, Steenerson said, has refused to grant the modification in the spring wheat grades demanded by the state inspection authorities of Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and by representative farmers and urged by members of congress and a committee of the legislature of Minnesota who were recently heard on this subject. The changes were opposed now as they have been in previous hearings, by miners and grain dealers and handlers.

WORLD AWAITS SENATE VOTE ON DISARMAMENT

Borah Proposal Empowers President to Confer With Britain and Japan.

WANT U. S. TO BE LEADER

"Naval Holiday" Can Be Gained Only by World Powers Getting Together.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—The United States was expected Friday to take the first step toward naval disarmament.

A vote was scheduled on Senator Borah's proposal empowering President Harding to invite Great Britain and Japan to confer with this government on a five year program of naval building reduction.

Indications were that the senate would adopt the measure and that favorable action would later be taken by the house.

Well informed observers believed that Japan would welcome a "naval holiday," providing it was initiated by either the United States or Great Britain.

A similar attitude by Great Britain was reported in United Press dispatches from London.

Great Britain's Washington
London.—Great Britain Friday watched with keenest interest the progress of Senator Borah's disarmament proposal through congress surrounded on all sides by possibilities of war.

Britain found it impossible to take the lead in reducing armaments although the official view is unqualifiedly in favor of the project.

Senator Borah's plan authorizing the president to call a conference of British, Japanese and American interests interested Britain because the latter two are the only nations planning extensive additions to their armaments.

Japan Seems Favorable
Washington.—Japan feels the initiation of a disarmament movement should rest with Great Britain or the United States and her government will not take the lead in such a step, it was learned from well-informed sources here Friday.

The Japanese government, it was said, is determined to have a navy strong enough to cope with the force which any enemy might concentrate in the far east.

This decision is to be the Mikado's attitude toward the agitation for a naval agreement among the three principal naval powers—Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

To carry out this policy, the present government of Japan is understood to feel that their navy must be constantly increased to keep abreast of the other two major naval powers.

CHURCH MEN RAP HARVEY'S SPEECH

American Ambassador to Britain Gets in Bad With Presbyterians.

By United Press Leased Wire
London, Ind.—Speakers before the Presbyterian general assembly Friday scored the address made by Ambassador George Harvey in London before the Pilgrims club.

Referring to the statement accredited to Harvey that America entered the war for her own interests and not to aid Europe, Dr. H. A. Atkinson, head of the world alliance, an interdenominational body to work for world peace, declared:

"If that is true then hundreds of our boys died under false pretenses." Following Dr. Atkinson's talk the assembly voted to preach sermons favoring reductions of armaments on June 5.

Dr. S. S. Palmer of Columbus, Ohio, was the only one to oppose the disarmament sermon plan.

"I am not going to try to get this country to disarm as long as Germany as an armed camp," he yelled.

The assembly Friday voted to elect a stated clerk at this session of the assembly and not postpone the vote for a year, as recommended by the executive committee.

Refunds from the plebiscite taken among the million and a half members of the Presbyterian church and reported to the general assembly here Friday showed that the movement to allow women to sit as commissioners in the assembly was beaten decisively.

ASKS CONGRESS TO SEE HOW U. S. GOT INTO WAR

Washington.—Investigation of how the United States got into the war was asked in a house resolution introduced Friday by Representative Michelson, Chicago.

The resolution recites numerous charges that organized propaganda by financial and other interests were responsible for American entry. Michelson claims that Gabriel Hanoteaux, former French foreign minister has charged in a book that France was ready to withdraw from the war late in 1914, but refused to do so at the request of Ambassador Herriek and Sharp and Robert Bacon, said to be a representative of J. P. Morgan and company.

Contentment Is Secret Of Long Marital Bliss

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Holbrook Attribute Happiness to Placing Home First.

"Contentment" is the keynote of happiness through fifty years of married life, according to Henry Holbrook, 475 North-st., who with Mrs. Holbrook celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. He attributes much of their success in married life to dispositions that agree and to the fact that they were content with their progress and success.

Mr. Holbrook believes that much of the unhappy marital relations of young people are traceable directly to the fact that their marriages were made too hastily or when they were too young.

"Either of the parties should be over 20. We were married when I was 25 and Mrs. Holbrook was 21. A girl at 20 is as mature as a man at 25. We had known each other about 9 years," said Mr. Holbrook.

"Married life is like any business, a give-and-take proposition. One must not be stubborn. As long as a wife is able she should feel it her duty to get her husband's breakfast." Both Mr. and Mrs. Holbrook said they thought it the duty of the wife to make the home as attractive and pleasant as possible.

The bride and groom of fifty years seem to be enjoying the best of health and are looking forward to the celebration of their sixtieth anniversary. Both might easily be taken for ten years younger than their actual age.

"We were satisfied with a moderate amount of entertainment in our younger years," said Mr. Holbrook. "In those days there was little beside the theatre and an occasional dance for pleasure. We lived in an entirely different environment from the people of today, who seem to think so much of pleasure seeking."

"I don't think much of the wife who spends all of her time at club meetings and keeps her husband waiting for his dinner," said Mrs. Holbrook.

As a further cause for friction in married life, Mr. Holbrook spoke of the unpreparedness of the young women who don't train themselves in housewifely arts.

Mr. and Mrs. Holbrook have three children, Mrs. Frank Babcock, Kaukauna, Frank Holbrook, New York city, and Miss Dorothy Holbrook who is teaching in Escanaba, Mich.

NEW BRIDGE TO BE BUILT AT FREMONT

Tourists who expect to pass through Fremont in the next few months will be interested to know that a new iron bridge is to be constructed across the Wolf river at that village. The contract has been awarded to the Wausau Iron Works of which A. C. Heinzen, formerly of this city, is president and manager. The contract involves about $80,000. It is probable the present bridge will be moved to one side in order to take care of the traffic while the new structure is being built. Every effort will be made to provide for uninterrupted traffic.

MAKE PLANS FOR CATHOLIC DRIVE

Twenty Campaign Teams to Be Appointed in St. Joseph Congregation.

Preliminary steps for organization of St. Joseph church for the million dollar drive in the Green Bay Catholic diocese were taken at a meeting in St. Joseph hall Thursday evening. It was decided to organize 20 teams with 4 workers and a captain in each team, making 100 workers in all. Captains and workers will be named at a meeting in the near future when final arrangements for the campaign will be made.

St. Joseph congregation has been assigned a quota of $35,000 which means an average of from $50 to $60 for each family. It is proposed to raise $1,000,000 in the Green Bay diocese to assist St. Francis Seminary at St. Francis, St. Joseph orphanage. Catholic home for the aged and other Catholic institutions in Green Bay and elsewhere in the state. The quota for the state is $5,000,000.

St. Mary and Sacred Heart congregations here have completed organization and the work of soliciting funds has been started. Part of the $22,000 quota for St. Mary congregation has been raised, it was said.

Gustave Keller is general chairman of the campaign and all reports are to be made by him. The drive closes on the evening of June 6 and it is proposed to cable the results to Bishop Paul P. Rhode, who is in Europe, immediately after the last reports are received.

Carpenters' Grievances
All contractors in cities south of Appleton paid $1.00 per hour, or better last year and have settled for 85 cents per hour or more this year, while our carpenters only received 85 cents per hour last year. Are they not justified in the stand they are taking at this time?

While lumber and other material very nearly doubled, does it seem right now to ask our carpenters to reduce their wages?

We, the carpenters know of no professional work of any kind being reduced in price at this time nor is fuel reduced, but raised.

Will the public and businessmen please give this their consideration.

ALL THE TRAFFIC CAN BEAR

Freight charges entering into the production cost of pig iron made in the Pittsburgh district total $10.48 a ton, according to the Wall Street Journal. Ten years ago the selling price of pig iron f. o. b. Pittsburgh was $13.20 a ton. The comparison needs no comment. We find the same thing in other industries—the story of the topheavy part played by freight in the consumer's cost of living.

Silently, inexorably, high freight rates are changing the system of manufacturing and distribution of necessities and compelling curtailment of the use of commodities. One of the most striking changes, says the department of agriculture, is being brought about in farming. Increased transportation costs are compelling farmers to stop specializing on any certain crop and to grow more of their own food.

In specialized farming we have this condition, says the department: "The grain farmer in many instances buys even his potatoes and green vegetables. The fruit farmer buys his dairy products. And even the man who raises milk for creamery, condenser or cheese factory is likely to send his cream or milk away, feed the skim milk or whey to the calves, and not make his own butter."

The prospect is that "the American farmer is not going to be able this year to pay freight on water. Water makes up a large part of fresh fruits and vegetables. The answer is, that he must grow his own table food.

In the matter of fuel, coal prices have not gone down with the market generally. They are practically at the same level they were last year, and the principal reason is the excessive freight rate. In many instances it costs more to haul the coal than it costs to mine.

There is something wrong with an economic system in which the cost of primary distribution is equal to or, as is true in many cases, is double and treble the value of the commodity as originally produced. The controversy between the railways and employees as to what factors are responsible for the prohibitive freight rates now in effect is of principal interest to the public in its effects rather than its causes. Everyone knows that freight rates must come down. The president says so and the administration is committed to a policy of forcing them down.

If it is necessary for labor to take a reduction in wages, we mean if that is consistent with the wage deflation generally, it is inevitable that this must follow. The reductions which are to go into effect on July 1st will have an important bearing on the problem. If, on the other hand, there is any truth in the charges of the employees that excessive costs have been created out of inefficient management that is a matter about which the public will have to be informed.

The transportation question has become so acute that more than the usual palliatives must be applied. The restoration of the country to a normal basis is impossible without a readjustment of freight rates. Transportation charges are perhaps the chief domestic barrier which stands between the United States and prosperity.

SCHWAB ABOVE BRIBERY

It has just come to light that during the World War Charles M. Schwab spurned a bribe of $100,000,000 "for himself" from the German government if he would break the contracts made by the Bethlehem Steel corporation with Lord Kitchener to supply the British navy with submarines. The facts became known when the New York Chamber of Commerce presented Mr. Schwab a bronze tablet in recognition of his great services to his country during our participation in the war. It appears that after the personal bribe was indignantly rejected, the German agents offered the same amount for the Bethlehem works and were again refused. Hearing of the German effort to get control, the British government offered $150,000,000 for the Bethlehem works, a sum "about five times their value." Then Mr. Schwab, in once more refusing to sell, disgusted the German agents and pleased the English by declaring that "the British empire and the German empire together did not have enough money to make him break faith with Lord Kitchener."

This occurred when the United States was still neutral, and Mr. Schwab had the right to furnish any belligerent with munitions, but to have left the British in the lurch for the sake of the Germans would have violated the spirit of neutrality as well as broken faith in the matter of a business contract. Charles M. Schwab was born in Pennsylvania and began life as a poor boy. Whether his parents were Pennsylvania "Dutch" of long standing or were German born is not stated. If they were the latter, this incident, apart from Mr. Schwab's great services after we entered the war, would reveal him as a model German-American or citizen of German descent. An inherited sympathy for the German people would make this act and his general war career all the more creditable. The miscalculating German government found the great iron-master a man of honor as well as a true American.

AN END TO CENSORSHIP

Postmaster General Hays has told the American Newspaper Publishers' association that the wartime censorship of the postoffice department will not be continued. "It is no part of the primary business of the postoffice department to act as a censor of the press," he said.

This means that the press is relieved of the bureaucratic restrictions placed upon it by Mr. Burleson during the last administration and our postoffice department is returning to its legitimate business of carrying whatever we want it to carry as we do not use the mails for improper purposes. Mr. Burleson's notion of safeguarding our interests during the war was to safeguard first the interests of the administration, and he attempted to do this on divers occasions by barring from the mails news and editorial comment that he considered inimical to administration policies. Even a so well-meaning and careful publication as the Metropolitan magazine of New York, with which Theodore Roosevelt was associated, was refused circulation rights on one occasion. Burleson could not always exercise the rigid censorship he planned, since the whole United States is a pretty big territory for one man to hold down, but he kept an eye on the press and did what he could to discourage papers here and there from showing too much independence. As a result Mr. Burleson has the permanent displeasure of all who believe that free speech and a free press are among our guarded rights.

Mr. Hays proposes to meet the newspapers half way and talk things over amicably. He promises to give second-class mails his closest attention. "The newspaper," he said, and he was referring to the daily paper, "is preeminently a thing which a man wants when he wants it, and if he can't have it when he wants it he doesn't want it at all." All of which encourages us to believe that the administration will work with the newspapers to carry out the wish President Harding expressed to the newspaper men that postal affairs be brought "into the straight-forward track again."

HARVEY'S CONSISTENCY

Ambassador George Harvey, according to the New York Herald's cable took two "bold steps" as soon as he arrived in England. One was his announcement that he wished to be addressed, not as "Colonel" but as "Mister." Whether particularly "bold" or not, this was a commendable step, for "Who's Who" fails to show that the distinguished editor and "Independent Democrat" ever had military experience or training of any sort. The other "bold step" was Mr. Harvey's announcement that, as a good American and representative of a great prohibition country, he is "determined to remain 'dry' while in England." Such self-denial in the cause of national consistency is truly admirable, for Mr. Harvey will have to renew his resolution and turn down his champagne glass at countless official dinners in great company.

It must vex him, however, to think that it will be even more difficult to remain consistent as he sits by President Harding's appointment as American representative in the supreme council of the allies after dipping his pen in vitriol for two years to blast the "supergovernment" and "superstate" which he charged as the sinister purpose of the League of Nations. For the supreme council of the allies is now and has been since the armistice the "supergovernment" of Europe, its decrees (with Japan helping to make them) being the law also for Asia and Africa. Mr. Harvey sitting in a council which at least temporarily exercises the actual powers of superstate is a curious spectacle. Whether he will come out of the experience with enlightened recognition of the fact that nations are too closely associated industrially and otherwise to admit of a policy of narrow chauvinism may be doubtful, but remains to be seen.

FRUIT ACIDS AND THE TEETH

Certain kinds of fruit such as apples, oranges, grapes, peaches, plums, grapefruit and cherries contain acids of the organic group and certain acids. When eaten such fruits do not increase or produce acidity of any of the body fluids or of the blood. On the contrary, the acid fruits increase alkalinity or decrease acidity of the body fluids and are commonly prescribed for this purpose by physicians who have actual physiological knowledge. For example, lemon juice or lemonade or grapefruit invariably increases the alkalinity of the blood and decreases the acidity of the urine.

Sometimes the teeth are put on edge by these acid fruits. Is that injurious to the teeth? Is it wise to take an acid fruit as the final part of a meal, leaving the fruit acid in the mouth to act upon the teeth? It is wise. The acid reaction persists but a few moments in any case, for it is soon neutralized by the alkaline saliva poured out under the stimulus of the acid fruit. But for the few moments of mild acidity good work is being done by the fruit. It aids in the removal of sticky particles of food from the surfaces of the teeth and from the spaces between the teeth and where food particles are likely to remain and undergo fermentation and other bacterial changes which lead to decay or caries-cavity.

Dr. William Rice, Dean of Tufts College Dental School, in a valuable article on "Dental Hygiene," in the "Mouth Hygiene Number" of the "Commonwealth," issued October, 1920, by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, urges that the lunch which a school child carries to school or obtains at a school lunch room should always include an orange, an apple or some similar fruit as dessert, in place of the cookies, jam or sweets so often used. I venture to add the suggestion that the fruit be added, not substituted for these latter items so dear to the heart and so essential to the health and growth of the school child. But the point Dr. Rice makes is that the acid fruit should top off the school lunch for benefit of the child's teeth. And in my judgment it is an excellent point. In fact, I think the apple or the orange or the pear or the peach or the apricot or the plum or plum much better tooth-cleaning agent than any toothbrush and dentifrice would be.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Like a Reverend Beast

We have three boys who play with the children of a neighbor. The neighbor has consumption, and spits about the porch and the yard where the children play. My husband pooh-poohs what I remark about letting the children play in the neighbor's yard with the neighbor's child. Please tell me whether any risk is involved. (E. C. W.)

ANSWER—A very grave risk of infection of your children with tuberculosis is involved. When such a person has long tuberculosis he menaces the life of everyone who may be compelled to associate with him, and he should be dealt with as a nuisance to public health. It is through such association that so many children are infected with tuberculosis, which may not manifest itself in an active way until years later.

Vital Statistics

Including Friend W. and myself, the present population of our apartment is conservatively estimated at 3,000,002. We discovered this after retiring the first night. We quoted the undesirable tenant clause of the rent laws; threatened various harsh measures and actually tried some of them; all to no effect, our co-tenants steadfastly refusing to vacate. F. Wife is on the verge of a nervous breakdown and I've lost some weight about the thing myself. (D. W. T.)

ANSWER—Why not pay your pro-rata share of the rent and bid the landlord to collect the balance from the other occupants of the apartment? The best way to eradicate bedbugs is by fumigation, with hydrocyanic gas if a professional fumigator can be employed to do the work, but that is too poisonous for any but a professional to use. For maldehyde or sulphur fumigation will serve. When fumigation is impossible, every crack and crevice about the bedstead, the room and closets should be squirted full of a strong insecticide solution, such as one-to-twenty carbolic and one-to-five hundred corrosive sublimate—poison which should not be kept in the house.

The Plague Of The Ages

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C.—In the conquest of leprosy, for which a specific cure has been developed by American physicians at the Hawaiian leper colony, one of the oldest and most terrible plagues of the human race has yielded to medical science.

Dr. J. H. Haskin, who has been associated with the work in Hawaii for 12 years and played an important part in perfecting the cure of the disease, gives some facts about this most ancient of the ills of man and how it has yielded to treatment.

Although there are many diseases which are known to have attacked man through the ages of civilization, leprosy is undoubtedly the most ancient of them all. Records of leprosy in China go back six thousand years, or four thousand years before Christ. The word "leprosy" is generally conceded to be the birthplace of this disease, the contagion and spread of leprosy throughout the world has been terrifying in its completeness. Scarcely a country, no matter how tiny or remote, has not at some time been touched by it. The name of the disease has been translated into every language.

In practically all cases where leprosy has been carried from one community or country to another, it has been carried by human beings, for scientists have been unable to find, to date, any lower animal which can contract leprosy. In the year 81 A. D. the disease was spreading all over Europe. The Romans got it from the Greeks; Pompey had carried it into Italy as early as the first century. B. C. The word was common among the Jews 280 years previous to that. Later pilgrims from the Holy Land carried leprosy to England and the noble armies of the Crusaders spread it wide-ast when returning to their home lands during the tenth, eleventh and twelfth centuries. Wales, Ireland, Norway and Sweden became so infected as to have the disease as a permanent part of a plague.

The exact date when the disease invaded America cannot be traced, but it is thought probable that most of the comparatively few cases in this country have been brought by returning travelers who visited the Orient.

Two Million Lepers

At the present time, according to statistics compiled by Dr. Victor G. Heiser, there are two million lepers in the world. There are about every 800 inhabitants of the world is a leper. The largest number of these are in China. According to a Leprosy Conference held at Calcutta in February of 1920, it is estimated that there are approximately 150,000 lepers in India. There are several thousand in Japan and only 500 in Hawaii.

In spite of the popular belief that leprosy is a disease of the tropics, it is one of the world's lepers. There are many cases of leprosy in Central and South American countries, and comparatively few scattered through Mexico, the West Indies, the United States, and Canada. Russia and Sweden have some cases and it is common in Asiatic countries other than those above mentioned. The western coast of Africa is also seriously infected with leprosy. It can thus be seen that leprosy has not yet ceased to be a world menace.

And what methods has the world used to get rid of its oldest disease? First of all, segregation has been practiced and secondly, medicinal attempts at remedies. Leprosy is spread by bacteria, especially those of the nose secretions, according to the most general belief, although its origin has been attributed variously to climate, too little salt in food, insanitary living conditions and eating spoiled fish.

The idea of segregating lepers occurred to mankind at an early date. Herodotus says that the Persians of his time exiled lepers. Moses, following the customs of ancient Egypt, segregated the lepers. The Chinese went so far as to burn lepers alive. Medieval France provided lepers with rattles to warn all of their approach and enforced uniform gray for the apparel of these unfortunate.

Today all Christian countries have sanitariums or missionary hospitals for the care and segregation of those afflicted with leprosy. There are three hospitals for lepers in the United States, located in the states of Louisiana, California, and Massachusetts. The hospital near Carville, Louisiana, on the Mississippi River, was recently made a Federal Hospital for Lepers, in accordance with the law finally passed by congress.

In Russia, lepers are exiled to Siberia. In the Fiji Islands, they are placed on pyres of green leaves of a tree supposed to possess healing qualities. The skin of the victim is slowly cooked, or scorched and the leper, if he survives this rough treatment, is said to recover from his disease. The reason that leprosy is so much more prevalent in non-Christian countries is said to be that the Bible impresses Christians with the fear of leprosy. In the early days of Christianity, it was considered in full accord with Biblical teachings for communities to drive the "unclean" leper out of their midst and send him, a shunned wanderer upon the face of the earth, or even to stone him to death.

In the eastern countries the believers of other than Christian faiths do not have this great fear of the disease, and in many cases leprosy is considered an asset by beggars in that its loathsomeness will excite sympathy.

A Cure at Last
The medical philosopher Atraya who lived in China at least 2,000 years before the Christian Era, wrote the "Charaka Samhita" on the pathology of leprosy. In it he said, "The man who neglects the disease at its commencement is sure to die, for it becomes incurable." Yet Dr. McDonald states positively that 142 cases cured since October 1918. These cases have been examined by a commission appointed by the territorial Board of Health and declared to be no longer a menace to the public health. They have been set at liberty, but report to the government physicians at intervals to see that symptoms of the disease do not recur. So far not a single relapse has been noted in a period covering nearly three years. During this period of three years, Dr. McDonald has been attending physician at the Kalih Hospital and has personally given nearly 10,000 injections of the new preparation of Chaulmoogra oil.

This oil is one of the oldest remedies used in attempts to cure leprosy and has more cures to its credit than any other remedy. It has been used since the time of Moses. The chief problem in using this oil, however, has been that the crude oil nauseated the patient so that its effect was impaired.

Within the last 10 or 15 years a series of improvements in the oil preparation has been evolved from different experiments and observations made in that part of the world where leprosy is most epidemic.

Three or four years ago Dr. A. L. Dean, president of the University of Hawaii and a distinguished chemist, began to study and investigate Chaulmoogra oil. He finally succeeded in producing ethylesters of the fatty acids of the oil in a thin liquid which has been found to be the most readily absorbed when introduced into the patient by the intra-muscular route rather than into the blood vessels directly by the use of the hypodermic needle. Dr. Dean has been constantly improving upon his derivatives of the oil and his technique and methods, assisted by Dr. McDonald.

In speaking of Kalih Hospital and the work there, Dr. McDonald says: "We have increased the number of patients in Kalih Hospital who take this oil until every patient in the hospital is now taking the Dean derivatives and has been doing so for several years. It is true that we have met with splendid success. The medicine is readily absorbed and the patients are all gradually and slowly improving from month to month. The cases in which the disease has been taught in its earlier stages, naturally respond to the treatment most quickly.

"A great many of the patients are native Hawaiians who formerly had a dread of exile life at the settlement at Molokai. It was common among the natives to conceal a patient as soon as it was known that he had the disease, but today, as soon as a case develops, no matter if in a remote part of the islands, the friends or relatives bring the victim to the hospital at once and give him up for this new treatment. In this way we are getting cases in the earlier stages and also find them more tractable to treatment and the symptoms disappear much more readily.

"The morale of the hospital is excellent. It is pervaded by the spirit of hopefulness and confidence of cure and release. The patients are usually in the hospital for a period of from one to three years. Many of them are young, as leprosy like tuberculosis, is a disease of early life.

"The patients have many occupations to keep them busy and happy. They care for the flower and vegetable gardens, the live stock, and help in keeping the modern buildings attractive. They enjoy a community life of their own and have theatricals, sport contests of various kinds, dances and prayer meetings to keep them interested, contented and happy. They are given good substantial food and plenty of it."

As the very latest development in the work with the Chaulmoogra oil as used in the Dean derivatives, Dr. McDonald pointed out the fact that Drs. Walker and Sweeney of Hooper Foundation, connected with the University of California, have recently proven Dean derivatives to kill the leprosy bacteria.

How you spend Decoration Day Depends on where you spend today

Some men regard Decoration Day merely as a date on the calendar. Others remain in bed until 10—putting around the house until noon and then rally forth butterflies of fashion. And it's these men who most enjoy their holiday. Now that we've established the reason for new clothes—we want to point out the reason for buying them here.

1st—THESE STOCKS ARE FRESH—We couldn't make you look like a last year's Saturday-Evening Post "ad" if you commanded.

2nd—OUR VALUES ARE SO UNUSUALLY LIBERAL you couldn't complain about "high prices" if you selected the most expensive wardrobe in the store.

Every quality definitely known and warranted to deceive dissatisfaction.

Come in and let us show you what a wonderful Decoration Day you can have this year, Schmidt Suits.

A rug is a one-piece or seamless floor covering which leaves part of the floor bare, and which is not tacked down. Carpeting is now made up to imitate rugs. In England the term "carpet" is applied to large rugs.

Q. What is the largest poisonous snake? G. P. G.

A. The bushmaster, a pit viper of the rattlesnake family, is the largest venomous snake known. Specimens 12 feet long have been measured. The bite is so poisonous that victims have died within ten minutes of the time when bitten. The snake is native to the Amazon region, and is untamable. It will not feed in captivity and as the shock of forcible feeding kills the reptile, none has survived in a cage for more than four or five months.

Q. Which makes more noise in an airplane, the engine or the propeller? M. M. F.

A. The propeller and engine make about the same amount of noise, but the sound of the propeller is much more penetrating than the roar of the engine.

Q. Can .002 inches be seen or read with the naked eye on a straight-edge scale? L. F. B.

A. The Bureau of Standards says there are no straight edge scales made which are divided so that .002 inch might be seen.

Q. Do the people of Alaska have a vote for President of the United States? D. McEl.

A. The people of Alaska do not have a vote for President, being at the present time under a territorial form of Government. Alaska has a legislature composed of a senate and House of Representatives, but the action of these must be confirmed by Congress.

Q. Is it true that Marton Crawford wrote all of his books with the same pen? J. J. F.

A. It is said that Marton Crawford always carried his own stationery, pen and ink, and refused to write with any others. Also that he wrote every novel with the same penholder.

BURY NO SOLDIERS ON MEMORIAL DAY

Legion Post Will Hold Public
Funeral on Some Other
Date Than May 30.

Believing that the proposed public funeral for the "unknown soldier" would be impracticable in connection with the Memorial day exercises, Oney Johnston post of the American Legion has authorized the statement that none will be held on that day even though one of the bodies of the fallen heroes of the World war might have arrived in time.

"Memorial day exercises are largely a tribute to the men of the Grand Army of the Republic," said Frank H. Bellows, chairman of the funeral committee, "and we feel that the funeral for the unknown soldier would not fit in with the occasion. To combine the exercises and the funeral would mean that we would be unable to handle the throngs that would attend."

Some of the bodies included in recent boatloads brought from France are expected here any day. All arrangements are completed for a half holiday and participation in the burial by all Appleton organizations, labor, religious, fraternal, civic and others. The first body to arrive for burial in this city will be the one for which the honorary funeral will be held, commemorative of every deceased Appleton soldier.

WANT ACTORS TO BOOST APPLETON

Making vaudeville players into good boosters for Appleton is the suggestion contained in a letter to the chamber of commerce from the B. F. Keith Circuit of Theaters, whose players appear regularly in Appleton theater. Officials of this booking agency tell of the activities in other cities where commercial organizations and citizens make the stay of the actors pleasant by providing clubrooms, sightseeing trips, or other forms of hospitality by which a feeling of cordiality and friendliness may be impressed upon the visitors.

Appleton is urged by the company to devise entertainment methods along the lines adopted in other cities. The matter is under consideration by the chamber. The idea is not new here, because the chamber of commerce recently tendered Appleton traveling salesmen a banquet at which the knights of the grip were urged to speak a good word for their home city.

DRY LEADERS OF STATE TO MEET IN MILWAUKEE

Appleton probably will be represented by several people at the convention of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league in Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. Tuesday, May 31. It will be a jubilation gathering, honoring passage of the Matheson prohibition enforcement measure by the legislature. It is predicted that the league will demand rigid enforcement of the new law.

Supt. R. P. Hutton will make his annual report and is expected to deal with the situation in Wisconsin pointing out where enforcement needs bolstering up. Last year Mr. Hutton attacked conditions in the eastern district of the state.

Dr. P. A. Baker, Westerville, O., national superintendent, will be the principal speaker and will tell of conditions throughout the country. His address will be open to the public.

The headquarters committee and board of directors will hold executive sessions during the day.

CREDIT BUREAU IS AIDING MERCHANTS

Service performed by the merchant information bureau in the chamber of commerce office is growing every day. Merchants are calling frequently for ratings or other data about persons seeking credit for the first time, and are being helped to give better consideration to the request of the customer.

More names are being added to the lists each day as new accounts are handled by various stores. Merchants are getting the habit of consulting the bureau for facts rather than jumping at conclusions and extending credit in unworthy cases.

A mimeograph has been ordered by the bureau so bulletins may be sent out regularly with credit reports and other information. One or two families recently arriving in the city have been enabled to establish accounts at various stores with little or no delay through the inquiry service of the bureau.

SHEBOYGAN LADY PROCLAIMS WONDERS OF NEW DISCOVERY

What better proof of merits of a medicine could possibly be given than signed statements from residents of one's own state and particularly one's own city? Multitudes of local people have testified to the astonishing powers of Kozak, the famous new discovery, in overcoming stomach, kidney, liver and catarrhal ills.

"Before I started to take Kozak I was miserable," said Mrs. J. E. Reinke, 1739 S. 13th-st., Sheboygan, last week. "The little I did eat formed gas and caused a sickish feeling often followed with dizziness so bad I was forced to go to bed. Since taking Kozak I have gained a fine appetite and my stomach trouble is fast disappearing. Kozak certainly is doing me lots of good and I am sure my relief will be permanent." Kozak is sold only by Schintz Bros., Kaukauna, Drug Co.

PHILIPPINES AS SAFE TO VISIT AS ANY CITY IN U. S.

Mindanao, some other islands and parts of Sulu. And that, ladies and gentlemen, is about all we have to offer you today in the line of savagery. The always advancing school house, the new Filipino spirit and the old Filipino aspiration have attended to the rest.

Next year the practical exit from these islands of the wild untutored child nature will be officially celebrated in a way the world might well take some notice of, since it not only marks the final triumph of civilization here but ought to put the trench cleaver on our once favorite belief that the Filipinos are fifty seven kinds of unclothed cannibals only waiting for us to get out of the way to fly at one another's throats.

This was highly comfortable doctrine and a lovely excuse for some first class exploitation. How much there is in it of substance and verity you can judge from an account of what is now about to happen.

When the Jones law of August, 1916, sought to deliver into the hands of the Filipinos the control of their own government, the provinces where the so-called wild people lived were in a way exempted from the broad democracy installed elsewhere. I mean that everywhere else the people chose their own senators and representatives in the Philippine Legislature, their own provincial governors, their own majority of the provincial boards.

In what is called the mountain province of Luzon, in Zamboanga, Davao, Nueva Viscaya, and one or two others, the governor general appointed these officers. The plan since has been to extend the principle of democracy as rapidly as possible to what were once regarded as the wild territories. Zamboanga, Davao and Agusan began three years ago to vote for their own members of the provincial board, the body corresponding to a state legislature in America. Nueva Viscaya obtained this right more recently and the mountain province only a few months ago. By a proclamation issued in January, Zamboanga, Davao, Agusan and Nueva Viscaya are hereafter to elect their own governors, thus giving them complete control of their own affairs. For the provincial boards are composed of three members, two being now elected and the other, the provincial treasurer, chosen in another way.

With this significant change, democracy and self-government may be regarded as having come so far in the Philippines that the figure of Uncle Sam sitting upon the safety valve here becomes but beautiful mythology.

Who are these people thus endowed in a lump with the blessings of the ballot box and the blessing of their own political business?

Chiefly, what are known as the "non-Christian tribes."

Mohammedans, you think at once: those wild-eyed, bolo-bearing Moros, Mohammedans, and therefore, according to tradition, utterly incapable of any democratic practice, even the smallest. But that is the strange part

"IT OUGHT TO BE IN EVERY HOME"

That's What Milwaukee Woman Says
After Health Was Restored
By Tanlac

"Tanlac is the greatest medicine in the world and I believe it ought to be in every home," said Mrs. Edith Mahringer, of 381 6th St., Upper Plat, Wis.

"For five years I suffered dreadfully from stomach trouble and rheumatism. After every meal I would blow up with gas and have such awful pains in my chest and around my heart that I could hardly stand them. I had to confine myself to a diet of the very lightest of foods, such as cereals, eggs and toast. I had rheumatism so bad that the muscles of my legs would draw up and I had to have help and use a cane to get around. My arms hurt so bad that for a whole month I wasn't able to comb my hair and I was in such misery that I had to stay in bed for five and six days at a time. Along with this I had headaches and dizzy spells, and although I tried all kinds of medicines and treatments I couldn't get any relief.

"Well, Tanlac worked like magic in my case, for four bottles of the medicine have made me feel like a new woman. I can actually eat pork, cabbage or anything else I want now without its bothering me a particle and the rheumatism has entirely disappeared. I have gained several pounds in weight and feel just fine in every way. Tanlac has certainly proved a blessing to me, and I am more than glad to recommend it."

NATIONAL C. OF C. AIRS BIG PROBLEMS

Synopsis of Annual Report Received Here Suggests Way Out of Difficulties.

Everything of importance that occurred at the ninth annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Atlantic City last month is contained in brief form in a booklet received by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce. With the slogan "In the public interest, more business methods in government and less government management of business," a clearer view of the various problems confronting the nation was obtained.

One of the most burdensome questions under consideration was that of taxation. No conclusions were arrived at, but it was decided to submit the question to members of various local commercial organizations again by referendum. Solution of tariff problems for all time was urged by creating a tariff adjustment board to fix tariffs within limitations defined by status, permitting changes without complete revision each time by congress.

One Wisconsin man, Max W. Babb, Milwaukee, president of Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, was elected to the directorate of the national body. Regarding government attempts at regular business, the report says: "Laws and administrative acts should touch business enterprise with great care and only to preserve a fair field to all. A wholesome standard of living is essential to general contentment. Hence, restriction of production or obstruction of distribution must necessarily undermine that standard, resulting in injury to all citizens, of every class. We therefore condemn avoidable strikes, lock-outs, and all combinations that needlessly limit output or curtail distribution, on the part of workers, owners or managers of industry."

Safe and adequate rail transportation at lowest rates was urged, granting railways a fair value for their systems in order to attract new money for expansion. The chamber reiterated its opposition to government ownership or operation. Concerning highways built through federal aid, the national chamber suggests helping only those communities where ending roads and permanent roads will be constructed, and then only for highways that are part of interstate systems.

Lack of coordination and general efficiency in the governmental system was mentioned and a demand made for reorganization so there would be no further waste of public money, and a more useful service to the people and business could result. Consolidation of departments, caring for returned soldiers was urged by the chamber and already has been accomplished by congress, assuring proper attention to the needs of wounded and disabled soldiers and suffering dependents. Measures by which soldiers, sailors and marines might be enabled to cultivate the soil, build homes or obtain vocational education were suggested.

With the one-hundred fiftieth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence occurring in 1926, a resolution was adopted urging the government to arrange a celebration, national in character, in Philadelphia, where this immortal event occurred.

WILL HEAR GREENVILLE TELEPHONE RATE PLEA

Application of the Wisconsin Telephone company to increase its rates for service from the Greenville exchange will be heard before the railroad commission in Madison, Tuesday, May 24 at 11 o'clock in the forenoon. Notice of the hearing has been received by Greenville officials and citizens.

Under the proposed rates one party business telephones would cost $4.75 a month as compared to $3.50 now. Two and four party lines would be discounted for business and residence purposes. Extension telephones for business houses would be increased from 50 cents to $1 a month.

One party residence telephones formerly $2 a month are to be increased to $2.75 if the petition goes through. Extension would be raised from 50 to 75 cents. Toll fees for connection with the Appleton exchange also would be higher than the new schedule.

WHAT A WOMAN SHOULD DO WHEN SHE IS WEAK AND NERVOUS

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN HAVE SURPRISINGLY INCREASED THEIR STRENGTH, ENERGY AND ENDURANCE IN TWO WEEKS TIME BY THIS SIMPLE EXPERIMENT.

On account of the terrible weakness, nervousness and alarming symptoms, which are often produced by iron starvation of the blood, the specialist frequently never suspects the real cause of her trouble but thinks she has some other ailment. As a result of iron starvation you may suffer from headaches, dizziness, shortness of breath or heart palpitation, pains across the back, loss of memory, weak will power, melancholy, nervousness, disturbed digestion, loss of appetite, sleepless nights, night sweats and so on. In such cases do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration but eat more spinach and green vegetables and take organic iron like Nuxated Iron with them for a while and see what a difference it makes. But be sure the iron you take is organic iron and not metallic iron. People usually take metallic iron in iron pills and like the iron in spinach, lettuce and apples. Beware of substitutes. Look for the name "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N. I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. For sale by all druggists.

WANT ENROLMENTS FOR SOLDIER CAMP

Postmaster Keller Will Accept Young Men's Applications for Camp Grant.

Postmaster Gustave Keller has been authorized by the war department to accept enrolments for the citizens military training camp to be conducted at Camp Grant during part of the months of July and August. All young men of good character between the ages of 18 and 35 will be eligible.

Describing the camp, Mr. Keller says its purpose is to bring together young men of all types both native and foreign born; to develop closer national and social unity, and to teach the privileges, duties and responsibilities of American citizenship. The camps will show the public by actual example that physical, moral and mental development is possible through the training outlined.

Camps will be conducted for one month giving a course of instruction for the soldier at drill, pitching camp, marching and firing on range. Special stress will be laid on competitive athletics and supervised physical instruction. Special demonstrations are to include firing problems by the artillery, building of pontoon bridges by engineers, an attack by the tank corps and army polo by the cavalry.

Only 1,200 men can be accepted under the appropriation this year, but a larger number probably will be admitted in 1922 when the government sees how liberal the response is. Men who enrol will have no expense of any kind. All this is paid by the government, including traveling expenses and laundry. Full details are in the possession of Mr. Keller.

LIKE LEMONADE

You can now buy real epsom salts without the awful taste and nausea, by asking your druggist for a dandy package of "Epsomade Salts" which looks and acts exactly like epsom salts, because it is pure epsom salts combined with fruit derivative salts, giving it the taste of sparkling lemonade.

Take a tablespoonful in a glass of cold water whenever you feel bilious, headache or constipated. "Epsomade Salts" is the much talked of discovery of the American Epsom Association.

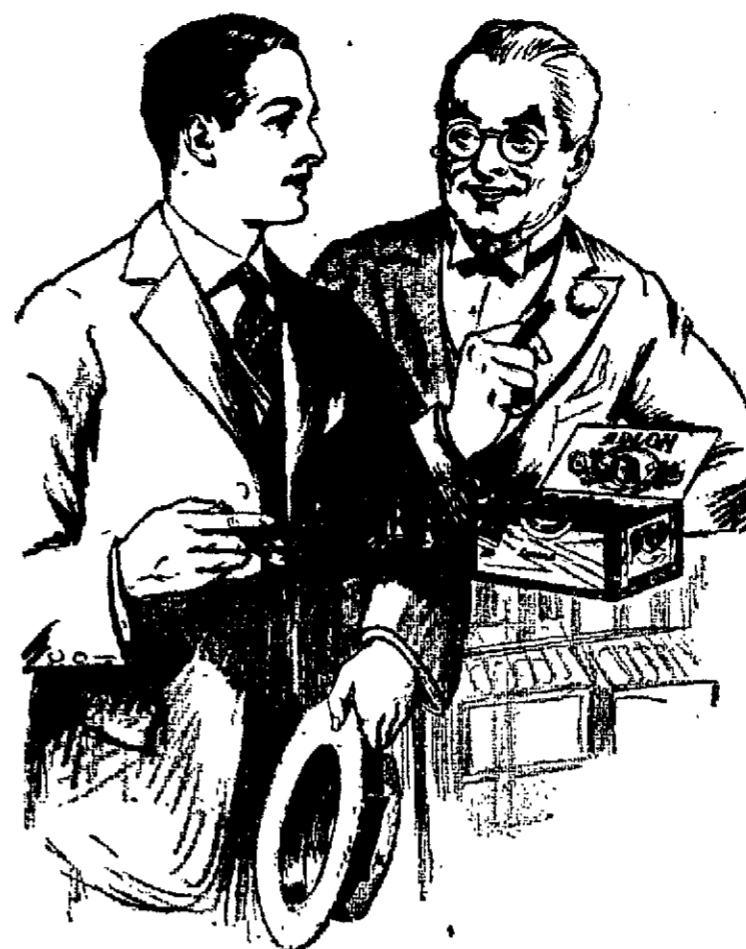

TRUCK OWNERS UNITED AGAINST NEW ROAD LAW

John H. Schlitz, of Milwaukee, founder of and attorney for the National Truck Owners association, was in Appleton Wednesday conferring with local truck owners on matters of legislation. The truckmen have taken a definite stand against the proposed law limiting the weight of a load which a motor vehicle may carry. The bill was introduced by the Wisconsin Highway commission, has passed the senate and probably will be killed when it reaches the assembly. Assemblyman Mark Catlin will receive telegrams from most of the local transportation firms opposing passage of the measure. The largest mammal is the blue or sulphur bottom whale.

"What is it about Adlon that makes it different, George?"

"There are no distasteful 'gums' to impair Adlon quality. These 'gums', present in all tobaccos, are destroyed in Adlon by an exclusive process.

"Yes, sir; there's nothing in Adlon but the clearest natural tobacco—full-flavored and aromatic. It's the smoothest, most satisfying cigar you ever smoked.

"Why, Adlon is the kind of cigar you can offer your friends and feel you're handing them real smoke-enjoyment. And that's saying something, isn't it?"

"I'll say it is, George."

"George, you smoke almost as many cigars as you sell, don't you?"

"I'd hate to tell you how many. But you'll notice I always smoke Adlon!

"Adlon isn't merely a Havana filler and fine Sumatra wrapper cigar. It's a perfectly blended combination of these tobaccos that produces a flavor and fragrance with mildness you won't find in any other cigar at any price!"

"You talk like an expert, George."

"I know something about cigars! My experience goes back—I won't say how many years. I began at the cigar-maker's bench."

You can get Adlon—the best cigar you can buy—from any good dealer.

That Face at the Window!

Extraordinary Discovery That Young Mrs. Grossman's Midnight Visitor Is an Ape That Has Been Trained to Be a "Second-Story" Burglar

"A visage human, yet inhuman; little deep-set eyes, shining with phosphorescence; long hairy arms and clutching talons of hands."

YOUNG Mrs. Frederick Grossman was sound asleep in her bed. Beside her lay her husband. The bedroom was at the front of their pleasant little Detroit flat and the bottom of the bed itself was close to the wall. Beside it was a window opening into the street four stories below.

An hour before, Mrs. Grossman had pushed this window up six inches from the bottom to admit air. This was her nightly duty after putting out the lights, because she slept on the outer side, close to that window. After she had raised it she had stood there for a little time, looking at the tall tree close to the house. Its naked branches were beginning to show promise of buds. She had thought how pretty the tree would be when Spring's touch had clothed it with leaves.

Then she had tiptoed over and crept under the covers, quietly, so as not to awaken her husband, who was already asleep.

And soon she was asleep, too. Then she began to dream. It seemed to her that she saw the room just as it was when she had gone to bed, with the faint light from the street glimmering through the window. But—the window sash was arising slowly and silently!

With the helplessness of nightmare she watched it slide up, slowly inch by inch. Then out of the semi-darkness beyond she saw appear a great ugly hand, hairy and knotted. It was followed by a long, sinewy, hairy arm.

The hand reached cautiously up and raised the drawn blind!

Mrs. Grossman struggled against the deepening of the nightmare terror. She now the sash had reached the top. She saw, apparently floating in the air behind where it had been, a pair of huge, staring eyes, in the depth of which phosphorescent flames burned as they do in those of a dog. At first all she could make out was the eyes. Then gradually a face became visible! It was human and yet not human; larger than a man's and evil, cunning and brutal.

Another hairy hand grasped the sill and the leering face drew closer and closer to her. Its mouth twitched and she smelt the fumes of liquor.

With a tremendous effort Mrs. Grossman broke the spell that held her and sat bolt upright. But the thing that she had beheld in what she had thought her nightmare did not disappear, as such dread visions do when the sleeper awakens!

It was still there! And its hideous face was not far from her and a dark body crouched upon the window sill with the long arms stretching out to her and the talons bent to seize her.

The nightmare had merged into reality—and such a reality!

Mrs. Grossman fell back, fainting. As her body dropped the right arm struck her husband across the face. He awakened. His eyes caught at once the shape of the thing now almost in the room. He saw the face with the malignant shining eyes peering at him over the body of his wife. Grossman jerked his pistol from beneath his pillow and fired straight at it.

There came an inhuman shriek. But when, an instant later, his eyes had cleared from the flash of the pistol, the Thing was gone!

Grossman jumped to the floor. One quick glance showed him blood spattered upon the bed. He saw that the window was raised to the top, and as he leaned out his hand rested upon another red, warm spot. He scanned the tree. There was nothing in it. He looked down at the street. It was deserted.

Grossman turned up the lights, telephoned to the police and strove to restore Mrs. Grossman to consciousness.

As he worked he heard far below a loud knocking as of fists upon a door. Then a scream.

Then silence.

The basement apartment of the house in which the Grossmans live is occupied by Joseph Swift, his wife and two children. All had been sound asleep for several hours. Suddenly Mrs. Swift shook her husband by the shoulder.

"Listen," she said. "There's somebody knocking!"

Swift raised up. He heard a soft, timid rapping at the door which led into the hallway. This rapping changed quickly to a rapid, loud, insistent beating.

"Something's the matter! Somebody wants to wake us up! Maybe the place is on fire," gasped Mrs. Swift.

The two children, awakened, ran in from their room and clung to the skirts of their mother's nightgown.

"Another hairy hand grasped the sill. Mrs. Grossman broke the nightmare spell that held her and sat bolt upright in her bed."

Young Mrs. Grossman, Who Had Such a Distressing Experience with the Ape.

Mr. Frederick Grossman.

answered Swift, grimly. "But whatever it was, don't be afraid. I won't let it hurt you."

He was rummaging about for his revolver when five policemen who had answered the call from the Grossman apartment came marching through the door. By the aid of flashlights from the Grossman window they had seen spots of blood upon a branch of the tree near the window. They had followed these spots from the bottom of the tree trunk along a cement walk that led to the basement entrance to the apartment house.

"It dodged into the kitchen," said Swift. The police took away the barricade and cautiously opened the door. From inside came a moaning and a frightened chattering. Revolvers ready, one officer flashed his light around the little room.

He shut the door with a bang.

"It ain't a man!" he shouted. "Get a big crate."

A heavy crate was found and pushed against the door. One of the policemen climbed on top of it and stood in front of it. The others, clustered behind, saw a dark figure rise upon its feet and hands and shamble toward him. As the figure approached the officer retreated, finally leaping upon the back of the crate and back into the living room. As he did so the Thing which followed him passed into the crate and sank down, whimpering and nursing a bleeding breast.

It was a great ape!

The animal was weak from loss of blood and made no resistance when the crate was fastened and carried away to police headquarters.

Astonishingly similar to Edgar Allan Poe's world known and gruesome story, "The Murders in the Rue Morgue," had been its exploits—lacking only the tragic end of that classic.

Even while the police were searching for its owner, J. K. Seeman, manager of an oil concern, made report that a large ape belonging to him had escaped the night before. He came to the police station and identified the animal there as his own. Mr. Seeman told the police that he had bought the monkey a few days previously from a man whose name he could not recall. The creature had attracted him by its unusual intelligence.

It had been docile and exceptionally well behaved, he said, until the previous night. Then it had been sitting at a table on which was a decanter filled with whiskey. While its master's back was turned the ape had poured out from this decanter a glass full of liquor and Seeman, as he turned, saw it drink this down. A window was open behind it and it had leaped through it, apparently to escape an expected punishment. He had called and searched for it in vain.

Mr. Seeman's home is a good mile from the Grossman's apartment. The ape had made its way unseen through the streets between. It is probable that when Mrs. Grossman stood at the window looking out at the tree that it was even then crouching on the opposite side of the street and was attracted by the white of her robe. It might even have been in the tree at the time. Certainly something drew it up to that particular window.

If the ape had succeeded in entering the Grossman apartment without having awakened the occupants, what would have been the result? Would Poe's story of the Rue Morgue have then found its parallel in fact and the bodies of husband and wife been discovered next morning torn and mutilated, as were the women in that dark romance?

What was its purpose in entering that flat?

The Detroit police began to be aware of some very unusual elements in the matter. If the animal had spied young Mrs. Grossman when she opened the window, then it showed after that a cunning or a training more human than ape-like. It must have waited until it thought that she was asleep before it climbed up. Furthermore, the opening of the window had been silent and guarded. Again, the fact that it had sought shelter not in some alley or hole, but had knocked at the door of another apartment, seemed to the police highly significant.

All this implied training—but training for what? Well, for instance, an ape by reason of its agility and habits could scale walls and other places that a man could not. It would make a perfect "second-story" burglar.

With that thought in mind detectives made an examination of window sills, bureau drawers and jewel cases in houses and apartments recently robbed. To their disappointment they showed no prints that could be compared to the finger prints of the ape.

But under the bedroom window of one apartment that had been looted a few weeks ago they found an opal ring, part of the jewelry which had vanished on the night the place was entered. It was thinly covered with earth which only recently had been mud. Its position showed that it had been thrown from the window.

Just where we would expect to find it if the animal's master, waiting below, had failed to get it, as, with a shower of other articles, it had been thrown down by the monkey," said the detectives.

The police then decided to test out their theory. They gave the animal a drink of liquor and placed it alone in a room containing a set of bedroom furniture. Watching through holes they saw the ape go through the dressing-stand. It wasted no time on the larger drawers, which usually are filled with wearing apparel, but opened quietly the smaller drawers at the top.

Anything metallic caught its attention. It fumbled with all boxes and cases, but only when there was no spring catch did it succeed in opening them. Then, with a few small articles in each hand, it crept to the open window and tossed these out without even looking to see where they landed. After that it slipped back and got more, repeating the action. After several trips it was just about to slip out of the window itself when the detectives rushed in and overpowered it.

A Drawing by Aubrey Beardsley Illustrating Poe's "Murders in the Rue Morgue" Which Mrs. Grossman's Experiences So Closely Paralleled.

The tests were made again and again. Only after the animal had been given a drink of liquor did it go through with the burglary. At other times it was exceptionally timid.

Whiskey made of it a real monkey Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde!

It was now plain that the beast had received a careful education in crime. It had been taught to like liquor and had been given drink both before going out to rob and, no doubt, after the robbery, as a reward!

Death was at first suggested by the Police Department, but finally, because of his new master's standing in the community, they allowed the monkey to be released in his custody. But it is stipulated that Mr. Seeman must guard against having the ape stolen, and most of all by the unidentified man from whom it was purchased. Also he must never sell or give away the monkey without the consent of the Police Department.

And he must never allow it even to smell liquor!

WOOLLEY SEES TWO REASONS FOR RAIL SITUATION IN U. S.

World Economic Condition and Premature Return to Owners Are Blamed.

By H. B. Hunt
(Special to Post-Crescent)
Washington—Two primary causes are back of the present railroad situation in the United States according to Robert W. Woolley, former member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

First the world economic situation and second the premature return of the roads to private operation.

Woolley almost qualifies as a prophet through his recommendations dissenting from the views of all other members of the commission made before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee in January 1919.

The remainder of the commission urged the early return of the roads to private control. Woolley, opposing government ownership or permanent operation, recommended an extension of the period of government operation so that the roads could be carried through the reconstruction difficulties and also that adequate tests could be made of unified operation and proper bases established for rate and other regulation.

Looking Forward
Today there is more than a little speculation as to the possibility that the government may be forced again to take over the roads for another period of operation or see them, one by one, move into receiverships with a resulting confusion and disorganization.

"From a debtor nation," says Woolley, "we have developed into the creditor nation of the world. But while we have been producing more than ever, the rest of the world has become less able than ever to buy from us."

"The result is that our mills are shutting down, the grain from our fields and elevators is failing to move."

"With industry partially paralyzed, the demand for coal decreases."

"With decreased production of coal comes a tremendous shrinkage in demand for transportation—and a further curtailment of coal mining."

"Also, with freight rates and the prices of building materials remaining high, there is a minimum of building."

"Consider that coal, grain, ore, lumber and road and building materials constitute approximately 70 percent of all railroad freight traffic and you begin to appreciate what is happening."

"Obviously the restoration of peace and the establishment of credits would be a tremendous step forward—but not all the way."

"The transportation problem is deeper than that. It is the supreme problem."

"For instance, until we establish regularity of coal production, the railroad question is going to be increasingly vexatious."

"The Esch-Cummings law provides for the consolidation of the multitude of roads in this country into few systems."

"In that connection, however, I should like to ask: If it is better to have some 15 or 20 systems than the present individual lines, why would not three or four be better than the 15 or 20? And if three or four would be better than 15 or 20, why would not one be better than the three or four?"

The road name of Pocahontas was Ma-ta-oka.

DANCE LAKE PARK FRIDAY NIGHT.

U. S. HAS TURNED CORNER AND IS ON PROSPERITY ROAD

Secretary Hoover Convinced America Has Seen Its Darkest Days.

By H. N. Bicker
(Special to Post-Crescent)
Washington—I am convinced that we have fundamentally turned the corner.

This was the answer of Secretary of Commerce Hoover to my question: "Are things going better or worse industrially in America?"

Because of his knowledge of European conditions as well as the intimate touch with American business which his position gives him, Hoover is probably as well if not better qualified than any man in America in our cut of office to discuss present conditions and future possibilities.

Continuing, Hoover said: "It would be foolish not to acknowledge frankly that we are in the midst of great economic difficulties. But it is infinitely more foolish for anyone to think we will not grow out of them."

In some ways situation is more difficult than that following the Civil War because today our economic machinery is more intricate and less easy to adjust. Also we are dealing with a world situation and not a domestic situation alone.

"Great as our difficulties have been and are, we have much upon which to congratulate ourselves. For the first time in our history we have passed safely through a commodity crisis without monetary panic. For this we may thank the Federal Reserve system, which made this possible."

"Although we seem to have turned the corner, there are many readjustments to complete. Part of the bitterness of the situation arises from the inequalities in the progress of these readjustments in different walks of life and different branches of industry."

"Much of this readjustment can be accomplished only with time and patience. Economies of hard times produce savings and greater endeavor. Shrinkage in values yields more free capital. These savings in time for time the soil for upward progress."

"What are the chief impediments to smooth movement of readjustments?" I asked Hoover.

"There are many impediments," was the answer. "and everyone will set a different value and importance upon each of them."

"Among these difficulties enumerated are badly adjusted railway rates, excessive and badly adjusted taxes in sufficient tariff, high wages, high profits, high interest restriction on effort by labor and a dozen others, while our domestic recuperation is sadly interlocked with the recovery of Europe."

Parity of Levels
"It is necessary that we approach a parity of levels in profits, prices and wages in different industries. Some groups are able to up to stronger resistance to reduction of economic levels than others."

"For instance this resistance against lower levels in the services and commodities that the farmer must buy in the face of his very much lower returns is digging a grave of unemployment for the other industries."

"No particular economic fraction of our population can long continue securing over-advantage without disaster to itself and the community."

"Our whole economic and moral problem, indeed our safety, our satisfaction and our happiness are balanced upon our practice of this basic fundamental in business dealings."

A book of her poems will be published soon.

Harvey Must Remain Silent at Meeting

Washington—Colonel George Harvey, American ambassador at London, will attend the meeting of the supreme council which is to take up the Silesian boundary dispute, it was definitely stated at the state department Thursday.

Harvey's instructions while directing him to attend the council meetings, specify that he is not to take an active part or express an opinion in the deliberations on the Silesian question, regarded by this government as a matter of purely European concern.

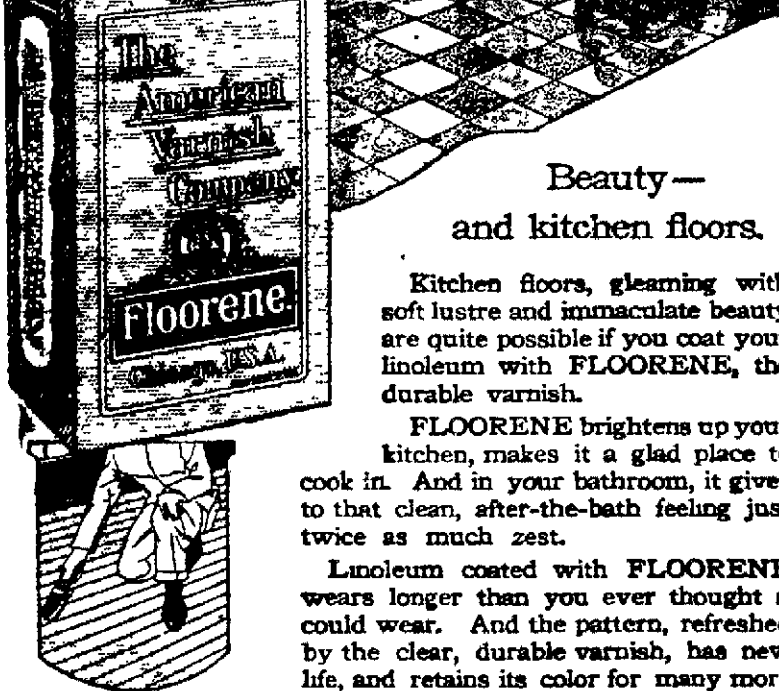

Believe Aged Badger Was Drugged in Chicago

Waukegan, Wis.—Inquisition into the mysterious death of John Kubly, 60 formerly of Tulsa, Okla., began Thursday.

Kubly left North Prairie last week and said he was going to Tulsa where he resided until four years ago.

Police believed he was drugged and robbed in Chicago and then came back to North Prairie.

Linoleum coated with FLOORENE wears longer than you ever thought it could wear. And the pattern, refreshed by the clear, durable varnish, has new life, and retains its color for many more seasons. You need not have dull, worn spots in front of the stove or the sink or bath-tub, if you use FLOORENE.

FLOORENE will live up every painted surface as well as linoleum. It puts a fresh glow on old furniture—that chair that has been discarded, or that table which is not good enough for company to see any more.

When you want to clean FLOORENE finishes, you use soap and water. Durable FLOORENE is not afraid of an honest washing.

Make FLOORENE part of your spring housecleaning equipment. The dealer or the painter will tell you about it. Ask them.

RAIL RATE MAY BE CUT AS A TEST

Suggested that 90 Day Trial of Lower Rates May Bring Results.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
By H. N. Bicker
Washington, D. C.—The railway problem is no nearer solution today than at any time during the many months that it has been recognized by all of official Washington as the most vital and perplexing of all national problems.

This is admitted by practically every man whose knowledge of the situation qualifies him to discuss it.

There is no doubt that from the standpoint of the owners and managers, the plight of the railways is becoming more desperate each day. Neither is there any doubt that from the standpoint of the shippers and travelers, victims of the extortionate rates, the situation is equally desperate.

That failure to find a constructive answer to the problem and break the vicious circle of high rates to the public and diminishing returns to the railway stockholders, is retarding the return of the country to industrial and financial health, is another point on which Washington officials agree.

Working on Problem
It is not that the railway problem is being neglected by those responsible for finding an answer to it. Far from it.

If work and thought and worry would have straightened out the railway tangle it would have been straightened out long ago.

But the right formula has not yet been found.

Eventually there must be great modifications of the Esch-Cummings law, which is the medium through which the government exercises railway control. It is generally admitted that this law has proven inadequate even under normal conditions.

But there are so many divergent

THESE WOMEN WON'T WEAR HUBBY'S NAME

Club Is Formed in New York to Permit Married Women to Use Maiden Names.

Special to Post-Crescent
By Marjorie Hale
New York—"A rose is sweet only when it is called a rose."

So says Ruth Hale, president of the new Lucy League, which has been organized to assure to married women the legal right to retain their maiden names. She continues:

"Lucy Stone, in 1856, said: 'My name is the symbol of my identity, and must not be lost, there is no justification for the custom that demands that a woman merge her identity with her husband.'"

"Indeed," argues Ruth Hale (otherwise Mrs. Heywood Brown, wife of the dramatic critic), "one's personality is too inevitably linked up with one's inner consciousness to permit of such a fusion."

"Women in the past have been so subject to men's wills, that giving up their names was only one more sweet betrayal of all that they were, of all their names had come to signify. Any woman with spirit should fight to keep the name she was born with."

"But," I questioned, "what about ideas in congress as to what these changes should be that relief cannot be expected for months."

The suggestion, recently made, that the Interstate Commerce Commission and the railways agree to a drastic reduction in the rates of basic commodities, for a trial period of 90 days, is being seriously considered.

The theory is that the movement of freight affected by the cut would be so stimulated that the railways would gain more through volume of freight movement than they would lose by the cut and that the stimulation would accelerate the whole industrial machine.

the law? What about wills and deeds and passports? You yourself when trying to go to Europe on your own name, rather than your husband's, found it utterly impossible."

MURPHY'S HEAD IS BIG ASSET TO BRANDT'S SQUAD

Veteran Outfielder's Fighting Spirit Helps Team to Win Its Games.

Mike Murphy, a sorrel-topped veteran in Brandt's outfield may have seen his best days in baseball but there is not a more popular player in the league than this same Mike. Every fan knows him and he gets a hand nearly every time he goes to bat. There is a good reason for this popularity and the reason is this: Mike is in the game every minute of the time. He is a little slow in the outfield and he will never set any records for running bases, but he never gives up fighting until the last man is out. With all the odds against his team Mike will go down on the coaching lines and work his head off to start a batting rally or get the opposition up in the air. This never-say-die spirit is communicated to other members of the team and as a result a rally is started and another game is put on ice. It is hard to tell how many games Mike has been instrumental in winning because of his fighting spirit.

Age has slowed up Mike's arms and legs and he can't go on playing baseball much longer. Baseball is a young man's game to play but the older men shine as leaders. If it should so happen that a younger and faster outfielder is secured to take Mike's place Owner August Brandt couldn't spend his money to better advantage than to keep Mike on his payroll as an instructor and coach. The veteran knows all there is to know about the "inside" of the game and he would be invaluable in teaching the rookies the tricks of the trade. He knows how to lay down a bunt; he can work the hit and run when it is needed and his baseball knowledge and experience, if imparted to younger and faster bodies would give Appleton a team which should win the Fox valley goulf on a walk.

Semi-pro baseball players need older heads to guide them and show them how the game is played and Mike couldn't do the team or his mates a greater service than to give them the benefit of his rich experience.

Sport Views And News

It is a source of considerable regret to lovers of college sports that Ripon college was not included in the "Little Six" conference formed at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, last week. Ripon applied for membership but it was decided to include only two Wisconsin schools and Lawrence and Beloit were given the preference. Other schools in the conference are Carleton of Minnesota, Knox of Illinois, Coe and Cornell of Iowa. Elimination of Ripon, however, does not mean that athletic relations between Lawrence and the Red and White will be broken off but it will make it harder for Ripon to obtain good athletes and of course that has a tendency to weaken her athletic teams and destroy interest in her games with Lawrence.

It's been rumored that Abe Attell is going to equal in the baseball scandal. If the former prize fighter pulls this little stunt, there should be little difficulty in securing conviction of the indicted baseballers. The former prize fighter was supposed to be the brains of the fixing gang and if he opens up the whole crooked trail will be bare. It is very possible that just about this time there are a few individuals on the uneasy seat, and wondering just how far Attell is going to yelp.

One thing is sure, President Harding won't have a very big expense for baseball tickets this summer. The chief executive has year books for about every circuit in the eastern states and recently the Pacific Northwest league, hearing that the president might travel west late in the summer has come across with free transportation. We suppose that this is one of the reasons why every youngster aims to be president. It's a great sideline to the job.

Carpenter isn't going to pick up any easy change during his course of training for the Dempsey bout. No spectators will be allowed at a buck a head to glimpse the Frenchman in his practice stunts. The European champion is going to work all by his lonesome with his corps of sparring partners and the public has been asked to keep away from the quarters. This is a wrinkle for a championship contender and the move is so novel that it will be watched with a lot of interest.

Another home run wallpacer has jumped into the limelight. Howard Shanks who third bases it for the Washington Americans clipped a pair on the nose off Shocker of the St. Louis Browns. In the same game, if Shocker can bunch one or two of his swatting bees, he'll be high up in the four play wallpacing race.

Band Paychecks Here
Pay checks for members of the Ninth Regiment band have arrived and are to be distributed at the regular rehearsal Monday evening in the band rooms.

Hardware Firm Incorporates
Outagamie Hardware Co. has filed articles of incorporation with A. G. Koch, registrar of deeds. The capital stock is $25,000 and the incorporators are Harry L. Jackson, John Rechner, and Henry M. Rosenmeier. The home office will be located in Appleton.

Ring Experts May Name Heavy Champ

Tex Rickard, promoter of the Dempsey-Carpenter title match, at Jersey City, July 2, plans to name a winner in the battle, in spite of the fact that the New Jersey law prohibits a referee's decision.

His plan is simple. He will pick three judges who, in case both fighters are on their feet at the end of the 12 rounds, will decide who had the best of the argument. Rickard expects Dempsey and Carpenter to agree to this idea and says wagers on the fight can be paid according to the decision handed down.

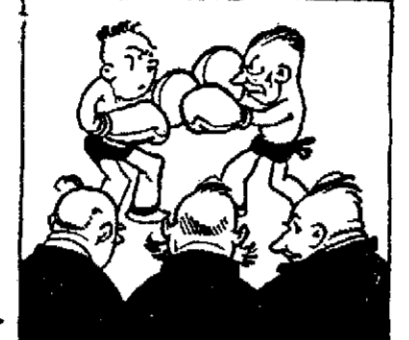

The Big Three
He has already practically decided on his trio of judges:

Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world.

Jim Jeffries, also a former heavyweight champ.

Lord Lonsdale, foremost follower of boxing in England.

Rickard feels that Jersey officials cannot object to this plan. He feels certain that some decision will be necessary in order to settle wagers. The contest is, first of all, a sporting proprietor and as such is likely to be the biggest betting occasion in the history of the roped arena.

Interesting Sidekick
Lord Lonsdale has been invited to come from England to the bout as Rickard's guest, and so has Jeffries.

Corbett, who is in America, has accepted a similar invitation.

An interesting sidelight to this plan is the fact that two of the judges who may sit outside the ring, have met on two occasions on the inside of the ropes.

On May 11, 1900, Jim Jeffries fought Corbett at Coney Island and knocked him out in the 23rd round. They fought again, on August 14, 1903, at San Francisco and Jeffries repeated the K. O. in the 10th round.

Won and Lost
Corbett became heavyweight champ when he defeated John L. Sullivan at New Orleans, Sept. 7, 1892, in the 21st round. The title passed on when Bob Fitzsimmons licked Corbett, March 17, 1897, at Carson City, Nev., in the 14th round.

Jeffries took the crown from Fitzsimmons in 1899 by licking him in 11 rounds at Coney Island. In 1906 he retired after having twice trimmed Corbett. In 1910 he attempted a comeback and lost his title to Jack Johnson, July 4, at Reno, Nev., in 15 rounds.

Jack Dempsey's Career

BY HAL COCHRAN

Chapter VI

After considerable training under Jack Kearns, Dempsey K. O'd Chas. Miller and Al Norton, his second meeting with the latter, in one round each and won from Bob McAllister, Gunboat Smith and Carl Morris in four rounds each.

The next bout switched to the east, in Racine, Wis., on Jan. 24, 1918, where Dempsey put Homer Smith to sleep in one round. Carl Morris was then taken on at Buffalo and Dempsey won in the sixth, on a foul.

Events Up On Flynn

Jack then got even for the knock-out Jim Flynn handed him back in 1917. He laid the big fireman low in the first round at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

Bill Brunnan was next and went down in the sixth round. Knockouts over Bill Sadeo and Tom Rifer followed and Dempsey then fought a no-decision 10-round bout with Billy Miske. On May 22 Dan Ketcher went out in the second, and one-round knockouts over Arthur Pelky, Kid McCarthy, Bob Devere, Porky Flynn and Fred Fulton followed in order.

Dempsey then staged a no-decision exhibition scrap with Clay Turner, at Buffalo, and followed up with a knockout of Terry Keller in five rounds, at Dayton.

The next scrap was with Willie Meehan at San Francisco. Meehan was handed the decision. Jack Moran then fell in one round, Battling Levinsky in three and Porky Flynn in one. These bouts led to a second mixup with Billy Miske, which was a six-round no-decision affair. Carl Morris then took the count in one round as a windup of the 1918 battles.

Has Run of K. O's.

Jack started 1919 with three one-round knockouts, all in January. Big Jack Hickey, Kid Harris and Kid Henry fell in order. Then Eddy Smith was silenced in one round on Feb. 13 and Tony Drake on April 2.

The long list of wins and one-round knockouts led to the championship battle with Willard. After a long layoff Dempsey pitched camp in Toledo and trained for the big fight. When it came off, on July 4, Jack knocked Jose out in the third. He pulled down $27,000 as challenger, but Willard's share was $100,000 and the loss of the title.

Machinery was then set in motion for a world's title bout between Georges Carpentier, champion of France, and Jack Dempsey, heavy king of America.

In the meantime Dempsey toured with a circus and in vaudeville. His troubles with his wife resulted in litigation and a divorce. Then he entered the movies. He finished a picture, in which he was star, and then sought more battles. He was matched with Billy Miske, Labor Day, Sept. 6, 1920, at Benton Harbor. Miske lasted three rounds and Jack drew $55,000 for knocking him out.

The next fight was with Bill Brennan, Dec. 14, at New York City. Dempsey knocked him out in the twelfth round. It was the longest time any fighter had stayed in the ring with Jack.

The champ then returned to his home in Salt Lake City. He turned down a proposed tour of Europe and reentered the movies. When his second picture was completed he went into vaudeville again for a short time and then journeyed to Freddie Walsh's health farm at Summit, N. J., where he played golf, took hikes and generally prepared for training for the world's championship battle with Carpentier July 2, this year, at Jersey City.

The next move was to Atlantic City where the Dempsey training camp is pitched.

WHOLE STATE IS WATCHING TRACK MEET SATURDAY

Splendid Marks Are Expected When High School Athletes Get Together.

Madison high school athletes are expected to arrive here Friday evening prepared to take part in the revival of the interscholastic track and field meet at Lawrence field Saturday afternoon. Latest word from Madison indicates about a dozen stars of the track and field will carry the Capitol city colors.

Neenah, Oshkosh, Ripon and Kaukauna's entrants will arrive here Saturday morning. All are in excellent shape for the contests.

Thursday's summer weather gave Appleton high school a chance to work out its men and there stiffness has almost disappeared so they will be in splendid shape for the meet. Inclement weather threatened to leave the boys in bad shape.

High schools all over the state are watching this meet for records made here will determine how many high school athletes will take part in the state meet in Madison the following Saturday. If athletes learn that marks made here are much better than they can make themselves there is little probability they will go to Madison where the chance for defeat is too great.

The track meet closes one of the most eventful weeks in the history of Lawrence college. Beginning with the play, "Come out of the Kitchen," Monday night, college people have been mixed in one thing or another every day. Friday Lawrence and Oshkosh normal competed in track and field events and the day reaches its climax in presentation of the May fete. None of the events, however, attracted nearly as much attention as the interscholastic meet on Saturday.

Insider Says

New Chicagoans are calling the Chicago American League ball crew "our clean White Sox."

There is something wrong with the day during which several homers aren't registered in the big leagues.

Jack and Georges swapping punches doesn't come under the head of foreign trade.

The stalling boxer gets the "gate" while the real scrapper gets the gate receipts.

The loser in a 500-mile auto race goes "round in circles and doesn't get anywhere."

Since Hurler Eller has been restored to good standing, the Cincy Reds will carry the Hod.

Since Mr. Carpentier has expressed the honorable intention of putting Mr. Dempsey to sleep before the sixth round, their little meeting will be anything but a sleepy affair.

Is there any more reason to crow over being a bantam fighter than in any other weight?

PICTURES MAKE GEORGES LOOK LIKE A LOSER

Kilbane Says if Carp Fights as He Writes They Sing Re-qui-em in France.

BY JOHNNY KILBANE, Featherweight Champion

It is not always safe or fair to judge a fighter by what he shows in training or by the theories he expounds and the lessons he attempts to give, but there are so many things in Georges Carpentier's book, "My Methods," that lay him open to criticism that it is not amiss here to point them out.

I do not take it for granted that a carpenter will fight Jack Dempsey at Jersey City on July 2 as he writes, but were he to follow the style as set down by him in print I would say that he would not last more than two rounds with the champion.

The most noticeable faults, as revealed by the camera, lie in Carpentier's fighting positions. Practically all of the illustrations show that he does not hold his hands right, that instead of landing with the knuckles, he hits with the flat of the fingers.

Illustration Shows It
This is shown most glaringly in his illustration of landing a right-hand body punch at close quarters. Instead of bringing the fist in palm up, he drives it in sidewise, making it more a push than a good, ripping punch with a somewhat upward movement, which it should be.

In indicating, which the Frenchman is said to have learned since Frank Klaus and Billy Papke beat him in that sort of work, the pictures either do him an injustice or he has failed to learn. In going in he leaves himself wide open for either a right or a left to the chin and even when setting to deliver a punch to the body his head is still unprotected.

Carpentier makes much of his so-called "waltz" punch, but if ever he tries it on Dempsey in the manner illustrated by him they'll be playing the "Dead March From Saul" all over France.

The punch is started by a feint that brings Carpentier behind his opponent. Carpentier then wheels him about to face him, catching him on the jaw with something that looks like an overhead right hook to the chin. In delivering this punch Carpentier's entire body is out of position and strained.

Much Force Lost
The left foot is within an inch or two of his opponent's left, the right foot is swung far behind and from the waist up the body is twisted in such fashion as to rob it of fully 50 per cent of the force that should go behind the punch.

Try it yourself, standing sidewise in front of an object, left foot far forward, and then, without shifting the feet, swinging your right high to form an arc and landing on a level with your chin. If you don't strain a tendon you will be lucky.

Watching The Scoreboard

Thursday's hero—Ty Cobb. The manager of the Tigers busted a home run in the fifth inning beating the Boston Red Sox, 3 to 2.

Jim York, who was tossing hand grenades some time back, with the Third division, threw a lot of bombs among the Giants, the Cubs winning, 5 to 3.

Gardner's single in the eleventh inning drove in the run that gave the Indians a 4 to 3 victory over the Athletics.

Marquard was easy for the Braves and the Reds lost, 5 to 1.

Ghardy's home run with two on helped Washington beat the Browns, 8 to 5.

Leborvaux's two base error, Stock's sacrifice and Mann's sacrifice fly gave the Cards a 3 to 2 victory over the Phils in the eleventh inning.

The Yanks pounded three White Sox pitchers all over the yard and won 11 to 4.

Babe Adams' arm was working in 1884 form and the Pirates beat the Robins, 7 to 5.

New York City's longest bridge over Hell Gate cost $15,000,000.
